We often entertained our parents and friends with music. Singing for a local congregation were the Madrigals. They are (top row): W. DeLong, C. Valente, R. Syphers, L. Cunningham, C. O'Neil, and L. Tackett.

Lines weave tale of busy BDHS year

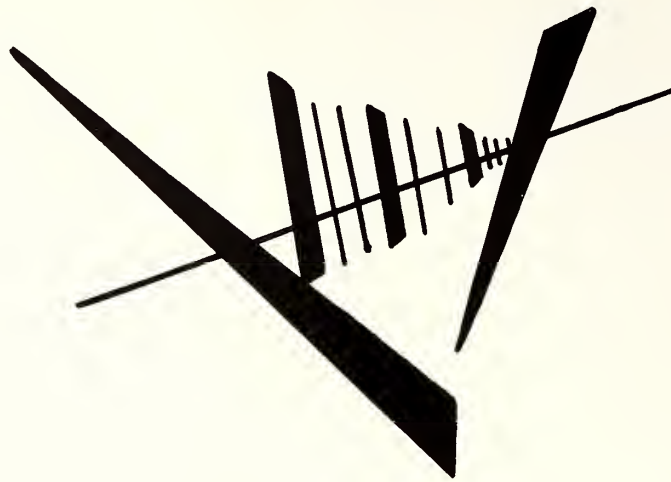

"Oh, no! Not another line?" These sentiments echoed through the halls of Ben Davis with inflections ranging from pure boredom to downright disgust a countless number of times during the school year.

Wherever we went or whatever we did, we were faced with the dire fate of standing in an endless line. No one, not even an expert senior crowder, could escape the inevitable. We had to stand in line for the necessities of life at the drinking fountain and in the cafeteria. We were constantly waiting in the Book Den line to buy paper, pay a fee, or order a yearbook; and who will ever forget, of all things, the sometimes revolting experience of standing in line even to get into class?

The band paraded in glorified lines called ranks and files, and the football team scuttled onto the field in a long purple and white line. Seniors expectantly stood in line to be measured for caps and gowns.

Yes, in 1963 our lives certainly seemed to be based on the line, and 2200 impatient high school pupils certainly can make an awfully long line!

more effectively

A staff of 25 instructors offer the 1800 pupils enrolled in their courses many varied approaches to the study of English.

After the pupils have completed the required six semesters of English, they have a wide choice of electives to choose from.

Fourth year pupils generally take advantage of the English literature and college composition courses to aid them in preparing for college.

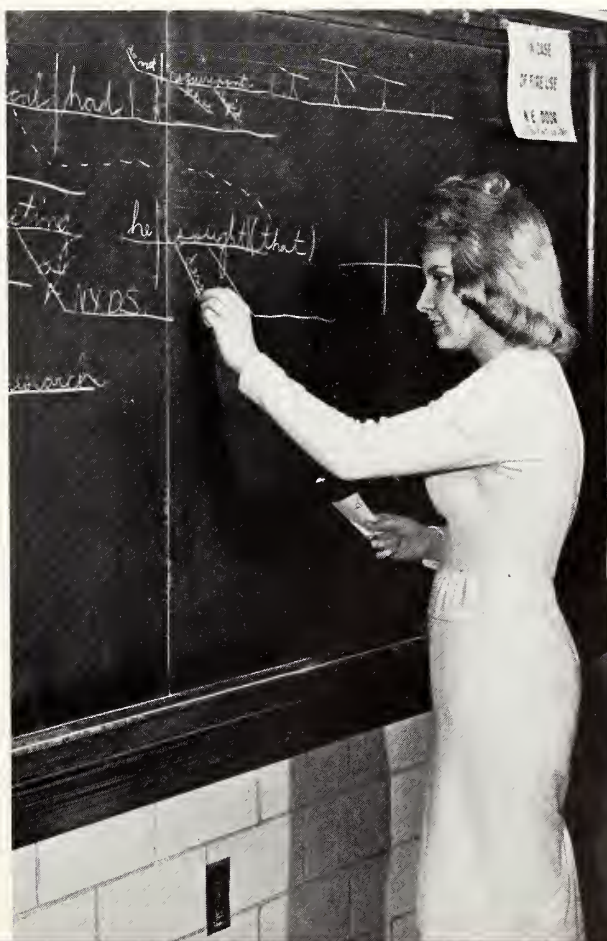

If the pupil is a speech enthusiast, he may choose from four semesters, including public speaking, radio, dramatics, and debate. For the pupil who is interested in journalism, a one semester course is offered. After the pupil completes this course, he has a chance to work on one of the publications staffs.

A must for every college-bound pupil is developmental reading, which increases the speed and comprehension of the pupil.

A one semester course is offered in the field of library assistance, the pupil gets actual experience in the library. Bible literature is offered for one who is interested in learning more about Biblical history and customs.

Each in its own way helps to make a pupil ready for any life ahead.

Exploring the 'why' of things

"Oh! What's that terrible smell?" This is the cry heard from pupils entering the Wayne Central building following the dissection of a snail or the failure of chemistry projects.

This year the science department, headed by Mr. Daryl Miller, has offered a new course, advanced chemistry. Pupils having taken biology, chemistry, and physics are eligible to take this course.

Usually, in the sophomore year, pupils fill their science requirement with biology which deals with the study of animal life. However, for the more advanced pupil, biology is offered to him as a freshman.

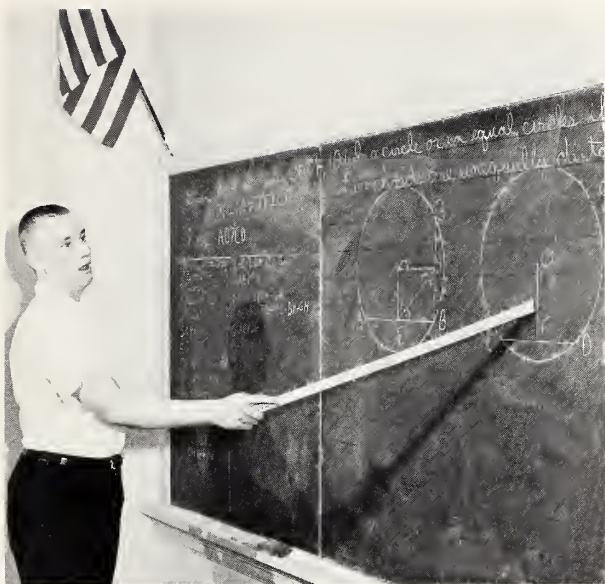

Many pupils take botony to further their knowledge of plants and their effect on the earth and animals.

Physics and chemistry are more challenging courses recommended for college-bound pupils.

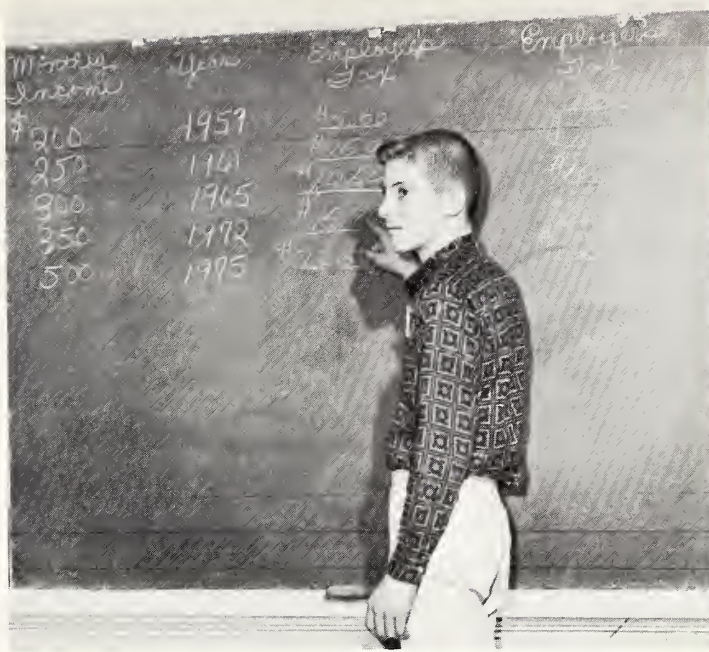

Learning to adjust a microscope properly is a basic skill in most science courses.

Pupils of Ben Davis seem to realize that the field of mathematics is becoming more and more important. This is shown by the increasing enrollment in the higher math courses.

Varied courses are offered in the mathematics department, which is headed by Miss Nina Martin. The different choices include general math, which is useful in the mechanical arts, and Algebra I and II.

After completing these courses more advanced mathematics are studied with Algebra III and IV; three semesters of geometry dealing with angles and constructions; and lastly, trigonometry, college algebra, and senior math. These courses offer an insight into college study.

The need for a clear understanding of numbers and their relationship is vital for anyone planning a college or industrial career. The study of mathematics is a strategic cog in the wheel of progress.

The intricate slide rules provide many problems for senior math students.

A government class practices filling out federal income tax forms.

A basic understanding of human society is the aim of the social studies department at Ben Davis. Six courses, which include world history, U. S. history, government, economics, geography, and psychology, comprise this department's program, which is under the supervision of Miss Olive Carruthers.

Each pupil must complete a total of four semesters' work of the curriculum. U.S. history and government form three semesters of those required for graduation.

The rise of nations and the development of arts represent a cross-section of the topics covered in world history.

Geography pupils learn of the people, animals, products, climate, and natural features of various countries.

U.S. history pupils are shown the stages of development of the United States and the principles which have made it great. Pupils enrolled in government are taught the complex functioning of state, local, and national governments.

Careful management is the keyword to the economics course. There pupils are taught the basic theories of economic systems. The inner-forces accounting for man's behavior are learned in psychology.

These social studies lessons, if retained, will make sounder and more alert Americans.

Problems, treaties, and wars face pupils

Mr. John Shaw lectures to his psychology class with the aid of an overhead projector.

Varied activities brighten language classes

An advanced French class uses a tape recorder to test their skill at conversational French.

To accommodate the linguists, three foreign languages are offered at Ben Davis. Many pupils take Latin to increase their vocabulary and word power. Most of the English words we use today are derived from Latin.

Under the direction of Mrs. Helen Wampler, department head, the clubs many activities and do a great deal for the advancement of the foreign languages.

Four years of Latin are offered: Latin I and II, Caesar I and II, Cicero, and Virgil.

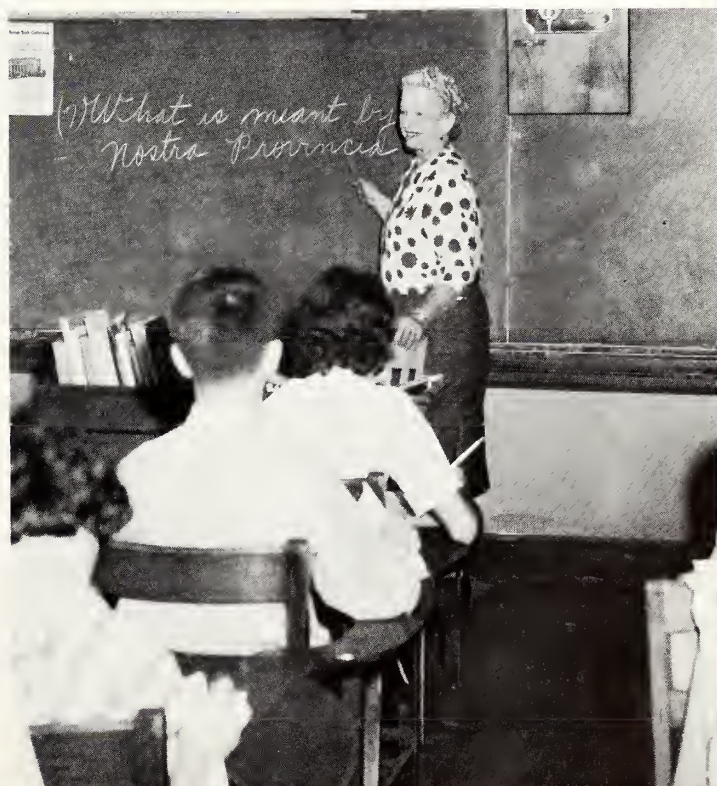

French is the newest language available. This year, for the first time, there are two years of French, allowing for a minor in that language. French is taken by the pupil interested in learning a modern European language, and it is taught on the conversational level.

For the pupils interested in something with a southern flair, there is the two-year Spanish course, which also teaches the customs and literary works of the Spanish-speaking world. The Spanish classes this year re-organized the Spanish Club.

French and Spanish are called the Romance Languages; because they are derived from Latin.

Every year the enrollment in the language department increases, as this seems to be an age for a greater study of foreign languages.

Mrs. Helen Wampler instructs her pupils about Caesar's Gaul.

BD pupils learn

One of the busiest places during school hours is the art room. Art is one of the most popular subjects now taught at Ben Davis with an enrollment of approximately 140 pupils. The art room is newly equipped with some of the latest equipment for pupils' use, including a ceramic kiln and air brushes.

Those interested in a career or a vocation in art have many courses from which to choose. In addition to daily work, pupils enter contests, make posters for around school, and work for pure enjoyment. The courses branch out into such fields as modern art, painting design, lettering, and posters. Pupils try their skill at freehand drawing, oil painting, charcoal, water colors, and ink. They have also tried their hand at portraits, still lifes, and illustrations.

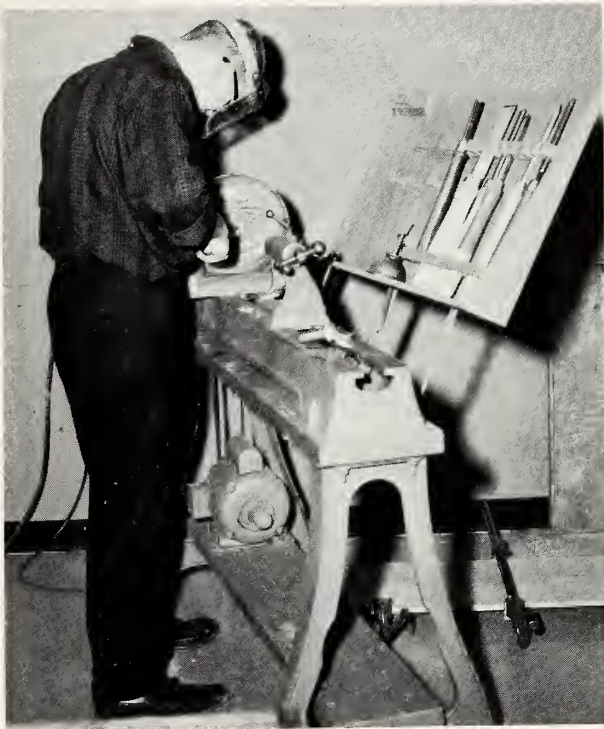

Each of Mrs. Elva Strouse's pupils enters at least one contest a year. Some of the various contests include: Safety Posters, Maritime Posters, National Scholastic Art Contest, National High School Eastman Kodak Contest, and Soap Sculpture.

Tammy Wilkes puts the finishing touches on her still life in oils.

appreciation for fine and practical arts

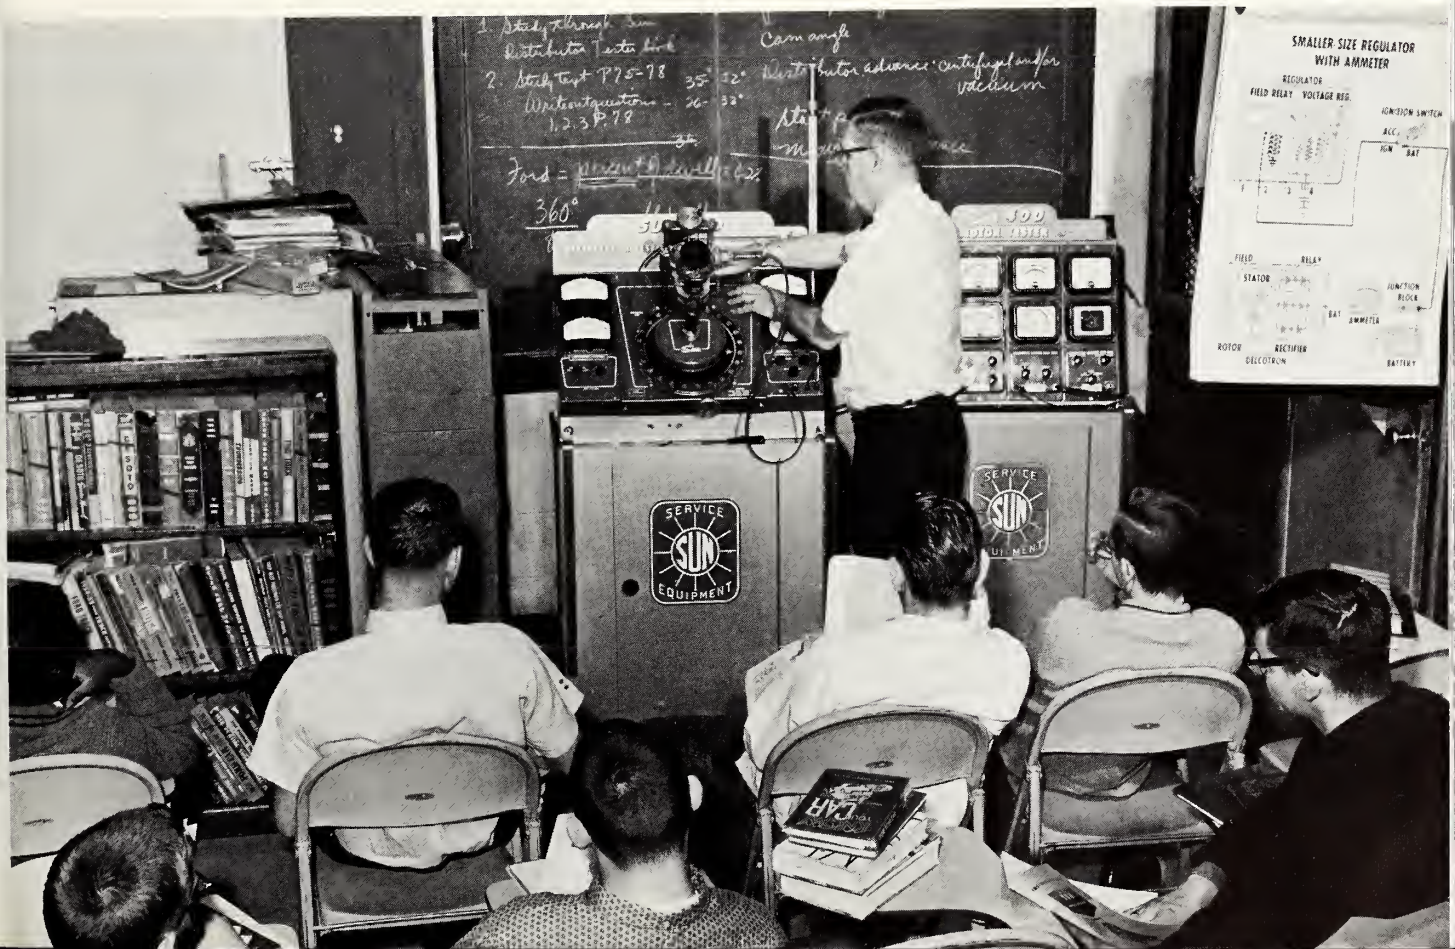

The teaching of skills and knowledge necessary in a modern industry and the application of these under the supervision in simulated problems are the aims of the industrial arts department. In giving an education in manual skills acquired in other courses, industrial arts helps prepare a boy for a future in industry after graduation.

As in any other course of study, industrial arts begins with the basic principals covered in basic wood, basic metal, basic machine shop, and basic electricity. Further training in these fields can be learned in Shop I, II, III, and IV; Auto Shop I and II; Wood Shop I and II; and, by far the most popular of the industrial arts courses, mechanical drawing. One way the advanced shop boys gain experience is to work as a shop assistant. The shop assistant aids the teacher and himself by working with other boys in the shop classes.

Mr. Harold Wilson demonstrates how to use a distributor tester to his auto shop class.

Have you ever been walking down the halls of the Senior Building and smelled a cake or cookies baking?

This means, of course, the Home Economics I and III classes were busy again. Home Economics I and III include the studying of cooking and preserving of food. Home Economics II and IV includes the styles of sewing and fabric differences.

Home Economics V consists of the study of marriage and family living. Family Relations is a course open to both boys and girls.

The last course is Home Economics VI or home nursing, as it is usually called. It is composed of home nursing procedures, the care of children and many other things related to nursing.

The proper storage as well as preparation of food is learned in home economics classes.

Ben Davis pupils for their future lives

Quiet! You are now entering the Ben Davis High School Library. The library, open five days a week from 7 a.m. until 3 p.m., proves to be one of the most frequently visited spots on the Ben Davis campus. The average monthly attendance of pupils taking advantage of the library's facilities is 5250. The library, which is located on the second floor of the Senior Building, has a capacity of 80 seats.

Directing the functions of the library are Mrs. Roberta Harmon and Mrs. Phyllis Casselman. They are assisted by 24 student librarians. The student librarians have previously enrolled in a science library course to enable them to properly assist Mrs. Harmon and Mrs. Casselman. Senior student librarians are rewarded with pins.

Approximately 8000 books including fiction, non-fiction, biography, science, health, religion, and history are available to meet the pupils' needs. The average circulation of fiction books is 600, and the average monthly circulation of non-fiction books is 800. In addition to books, the library subscribes to 80 magazines.

Nine sets of encyclopedias prove beneficial to pupils, and the career, information, and biography files help pupils prepare for term papers and book reports.

The library provides both reference and entertaining literature.

The use of the business machines provides help for commerce pupils.

The expanding and changing business world requires highly specialized workers who are able to work in such a manner as to insure profits in a competitive economy. The courses in the commerce department at Ben Davis High School offer this type of instruction.

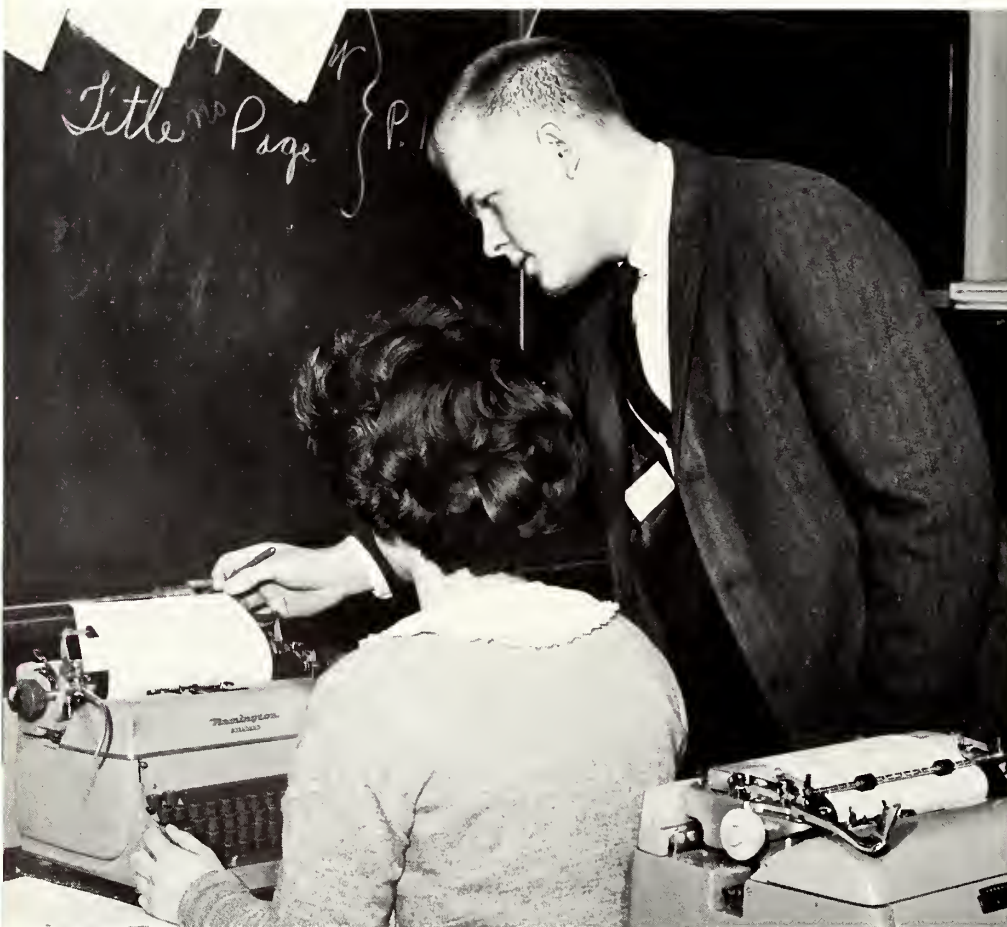

These pupils who have a desire to enter the business world are given training which will be of personal use in obtaining a satisfactory place of employment. Academic pupils also benefit by receiving an understanding of the principles involved in the business world.

A variety of courses comprise the business education department. Included in the varied program are: General Business I, II; Selling and Retailing I and II; and Bookkeeping I, II, III, IV. Other courses consist of three semesters of typing and four semesters of shorthand. Courses in clerical practice and comptometer operation are also offered.

Those pupils who are able to attain certain requirements are rewarded with pins and certificates.

Mrs. Jesse Kirk, chairman of the commerce department, believes that the courses in this department serve a dual purpose by benefiting both academic and commercial pupils.

the halls are alive with the sound of music

One of the busiest departments at Ben Davis High School is the music department.

The classes offered in the music department include: choir, cadet choir, girls chorus, beginner band, cadet band, dance band, and orchestra. Mr. Ralph Chandler is head of this department and band director.

Assignments to the music classes are made after consultation with a member of the music department staff. A full credit is offered to a member in the top band, orchestra, and choir. All other music classes offer half credits.

There are approximately 400 pupils enrolled in music classes this year. The choir and band make thirty-five public appearances during the school term.

The beginner band and the cadet band are for pupils furthering their musical experience enabling them to apply for membership in the Marching Giants. The first semester is for the beginner band. If the pupil still needs further training, he is enrolled in the cadet band the second semester. The concert band is the Marching Giants playing in concert style.

Freshman chorus is for first semester freshman pupils. The cadet choir is for pupils furthering their singing ability with the hope of getting into the choir.

Mrs. Geraldine Miller is the choir teacher, and Mr. Robert Bunning is the orchestra's director. Mr. Fred Neimeyer assists Mr. Chandler and Mr. Ronald Doak with the bands.

Mrs. Geraldine Miller instructs her choir in vocal variations.

Pupils involved in career research talk over future plans.

To gain a personal understanding of the pupil and to provide the kind of help to enable him to better handle his own problems is the goal of the Ben Davis High School guidance department. This department under the leadership of Mr. Robert Seeman is continually striving to meet the needs and interests of the pupils and to investigate newer approaches to meet these needs and interests more adequately.

The work accomplished by this department is numerous. Perhaps the greatest responsibility facing counselors is advising pupils on curriculum while recognizing the fact that each pupil has his own special needs.

Another fundamental job is administering several testing programs. These include the Kuder Interest, the Iowa Achievement Test, the Standard Development Reading Test, and the National Merit Scholarship Test. Such testing programs prove to motivate pupils to achieve their highest capabilities. Rounding out the counselor's work is providing pupils with information concerning scholarships, fellowships, and loans.

Thus, the responsibilities facing the counselors are unique. The counselors at Ben Davis High School are preparing pupils for the future by helping them to understand themselves and their environment.

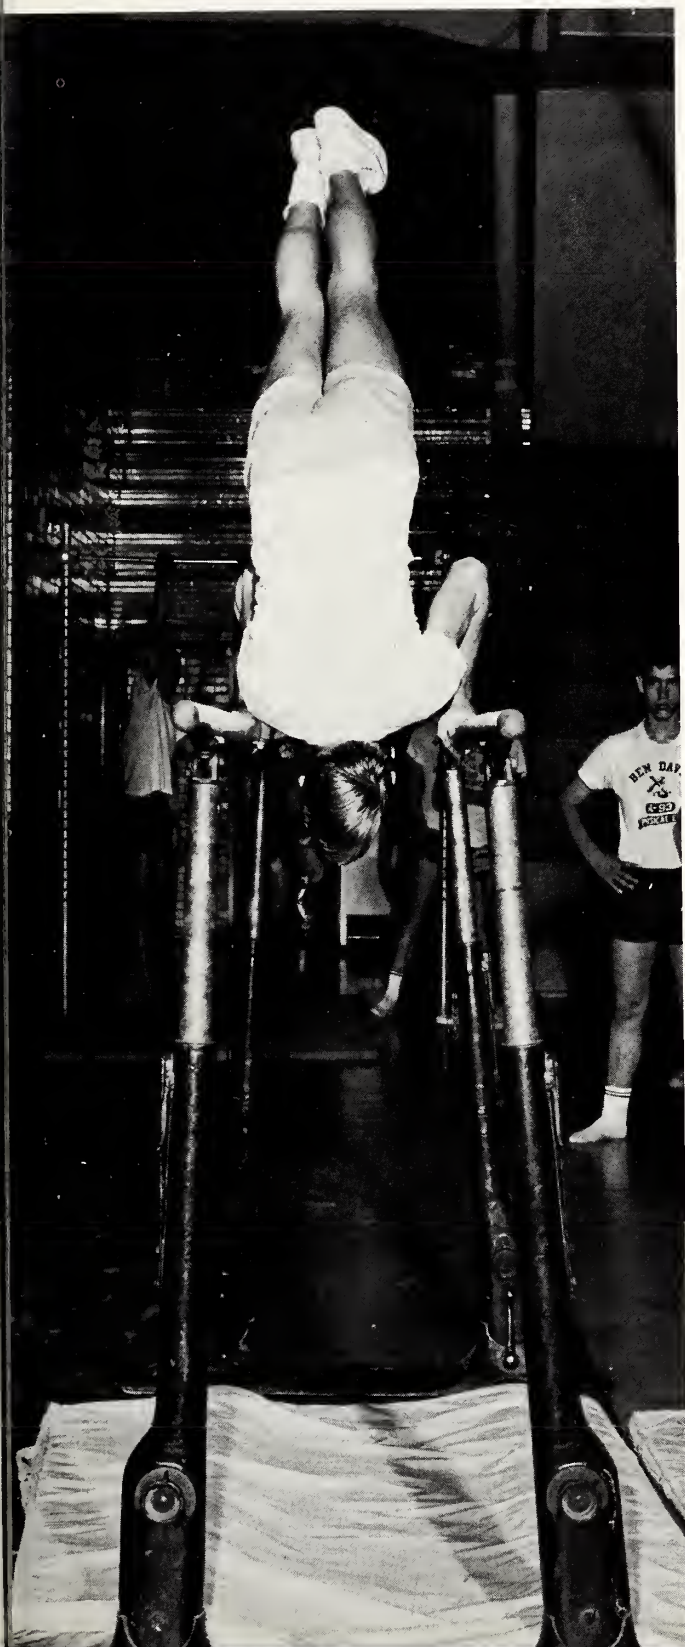

Patient teachers lend a helping hand

Weekly reports in personal civics class give vital information to pupils.

Vigorous activity makes BDHS pupils fit

Physical education classes work out often on parallel bars.

At some time in his high school career, every pupil takes at least two of the three courses offered by the physical education department, physical education, safety and health, and driver's education.

When the last bell rings for a physical education class the frantic rush from the locker begins. Gym suits, forgotten locker combinations, and lines for calisthenics are only part of physical education, much of the semester is spent studying gymnastics and rule of sports. After the first two semesters of required physical education, a boy may sign up for the gym assistant, and a girl may enroll in advanced gym.

Safety and health, also required by the state law, includes the study of first aid, personal health safety rules, and anatomy. Many days in safety and health are spent watching films on various phases of the course and practices in mock situations requiring first aid.

Sudden stops, highway signs, turn signals, and driving laws are only a part of the rigors of every day driving. How to cope with these situations through practices with driving machines in the classroom, study of rules of the road, and actual driving in the dual control driver education car are taught in driver's education. Taken by many pupils at Ben Davis, this course offers a chance to be better drivers.

Volleyball gives fun and exercise to sophomore gym pupils.

Looking over a bulletin are registrar Mr. William Girton and guidance counselor Mr. Robert Seeman.

A school's functioning ability lies in the administration. The school board, superintendent, principal, vice-principal, and deans all have an important job at Ben Davis High School.

In the year 1962-63 a school board was introduced to the Wayne Township schools. The board and their appointed superintendent, Mr. Harmon A. Baldwin, have taken over the responsibilities once vested in the township trustee. The school board's purpose is to lay a sound educational foundation for the central administration of the school district. One of the greatest duties bestowed upon these people was the completion of the plans for the new Ben Davis High School. The encouragement for curriculum study and experimentation at all levels is another of their many jobs.

Mr. Madison Shadley, BDHS principal, guides the school activities and insures its ability to remain an important factor in the lives of the pupils and the community. Enforcing policies and correcting any interference in the school's operation are just a few things confronting him regularly.

He is assisted by four vice principals. With the help of these men the efficient functioning of BDHS is guaranteed. The deans serve as counselors and help in the guidance of pupils.

All of these serve as decisive factors in the school's activities.

Experienced administrators set pace

During the year, office secretaries aid vice principals and deans in helping the school run smoothly.

Deans, Mrs. Rosalie Harcourt and Mr. Trent Gipson, confer on students' schedules.

After 10 years as principal of Ben Davis High School, Mr. Madison T. Shadley retires to assume duties as the assistant superintendent of buildings and grounds.

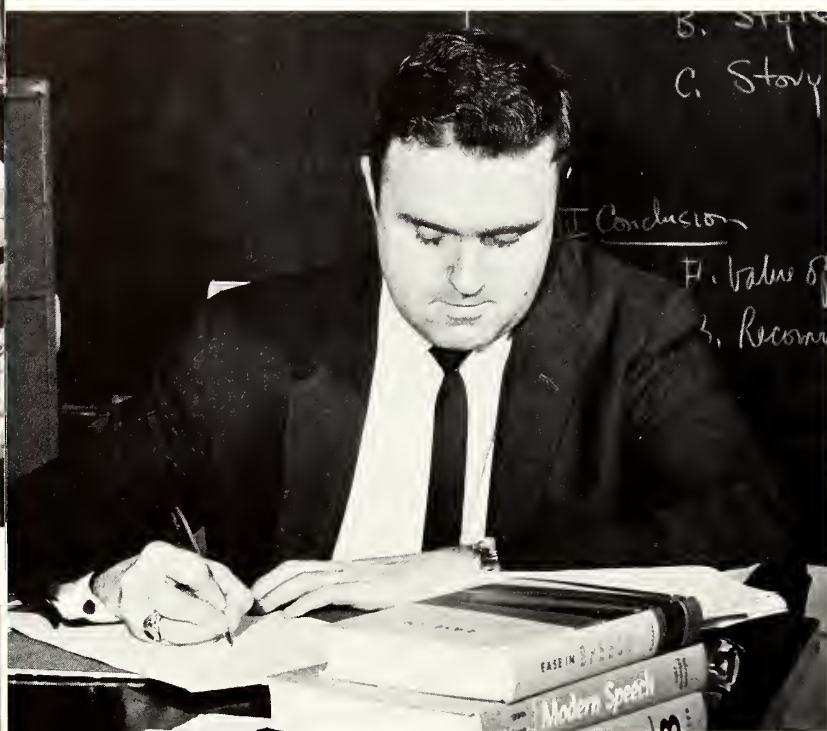

Vice principals Howard Williams and Dwight Cottingham confirm an organization's requested date on the school calendar.

Examining the plans for the new high school are Wayne Township's first Board of Education members, Supt. Harmon Baldwin, Mr. Paul Barz, Mr. Theodore Wilkes, Pres. Parker Dunn, Assistant Supt. Frank Cline, Mrs. Horace Abbott, and Mr. Dewey Hoss.

Faculty forms backbone of student body

The 90-plus teachers at Ben Davis serve the school in many ways other than just academic services. Grading papers, organizing a daily program, and serving as a sponsor of extracurricular activities fill the too few hours of a teacher. A pupil who needs extra help after school can go to the teacher and acquire the help he needs. The job of the teacher entails twice the amount of work as that of the average pupil.

A teacher's hours extend far past the 7:30 to 2:30 program. Many instructors at Ben Davis also take night courses and attend school during the summer months.

Individual athletes learn their lessons well

Star miler Bob Dickison broke the school record and held the best time in the state until the State Meet.

Named outstanding senior athlete, versatile Rudy Dotlich was state wrestling champion his junior year.

Whether or not members of championship or winning teams while at Ben Davis High School, individuals in all classes have made enviable records for themselves on Giant squads.

While not always most powerful, Ben Davis teams are always considered by opposing coaches and squads to be accounted with.

Of particular pride to Ben Davis is the fact that many Giant athletes also boast equally fine records in the classroom.

Senior and underclassmen athletes who have represented their school well are many. This year these include: Bill Clore, basketball and baseball; John Maines, basketball and track, Roy O'Connor, wrestling; Alan Williams, basketball; David Paino, football, wrestling, and golf; Joe Virgin, tennis; Bob Shaw, cross country; and Mike Flanders, football.

Likable Ray Starnes contributed greatly to exciting moments in his career on BDHS basketball fives.

The Giant mile relay team of Bob Dickison, John Maines, Mickey Fortier, and David Honey blurred to new school records.

Ben Davis' eleven was led by star athlete Carl Chaleff.

Defense of the first state championship in Ben Davis athletic history faced the Giant harriers as they prepared for the 1962 season. The Giants were hampered by the loss of four of the six winners in the 1961 State Meet.

The Giants opened their season against Washington and Tech in a triangular meet and placed second with 41 points behind first-place Washington, who held 36 points.

Nine out of 12 meets had 10 or more teams participating, and they never placed lower than third while posting their 8-4 record. Altogether, they participated against 64 teams and out-ran 63, losing only to Ashley, which later became Regional champion.

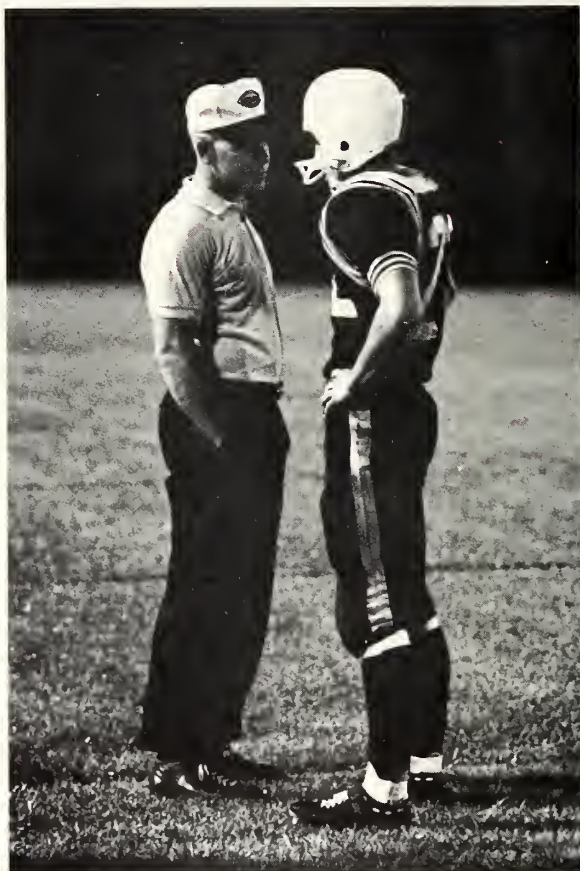

Ben Davis placed first in the Washington Invitational, Howe Invitational, and Columbus Invitational, where they were up against Kentucky's best high school harriers from St. Xavier. The Giants also placed third in the Regional and third in the state meet with 143 points to first-place Gary Roosevelt's 126 and Ashley's 135. Ben Davis had defeated Gary Roosevelt earlier in the season by 27 points.

Gridsters strive to better records

An unidentified Giant carrier is brought down by one of the eleven from Decatur Central.

Coach Trent Gipson and quarterback Darrell Thompson talk over a situation.

On August 15, seventy-five vacation-weary boys divided between the three upper classes reported to head football coach Trent Gipson and his two assistants, Mr. Evan Fine and Mr. Bob Britt, for issuing of equipment.

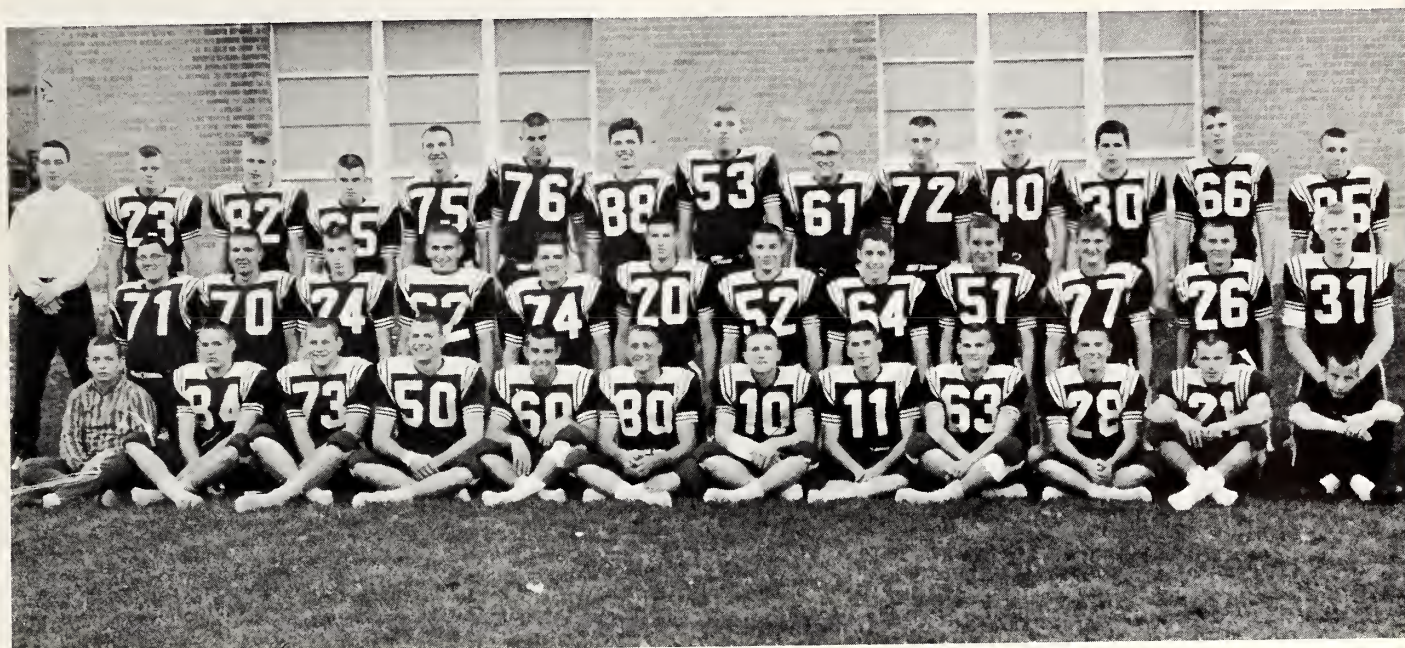

Starting bright and early the next morning the boys went to work with one goal in mind, that was to improve last year's disappointing 1-9 record.

The Giants dropped their first three games before coming back to defeat the Decatur Hawks before a cheering homecoming crowd. They then fell to the speed of Shortridge Blue Devils' backfield and balance of the North Central Panthers. With a little rest they came back and battled Arlington for 3-1/2 quarters before bowing, 19-12. The Giants then dropped their last three games.

Despite their disappointing season, the boys learned specialized skills in tackling, blocking, running, and passing. This and the fact that many underclassmen gained valuable experience because of the loss of an experienced backfield due to injuries lend hope to a stronger record for the 1963 fall season.

Each September almost all Ben Davis students begin to think about football, but, for some, football season begins nearly a month earlier. When the call for the football team comes, many boys reply by reporting to practice for the coming season. After spending long hours in the hot summer sun working themselves into shape, the remaining boys are assigned to either the varsity, reserve, or freshman teams. From that time until December these boys determine the fate of Ben Davis on the gridiron.

Ben Davis' struggling reserve team managed to capture one tie but lost its other games in a frustrating season. With high hopes for future improvement gained through experience derived from their mistakes this year the reserves closed the season with a 0-1-7 record.

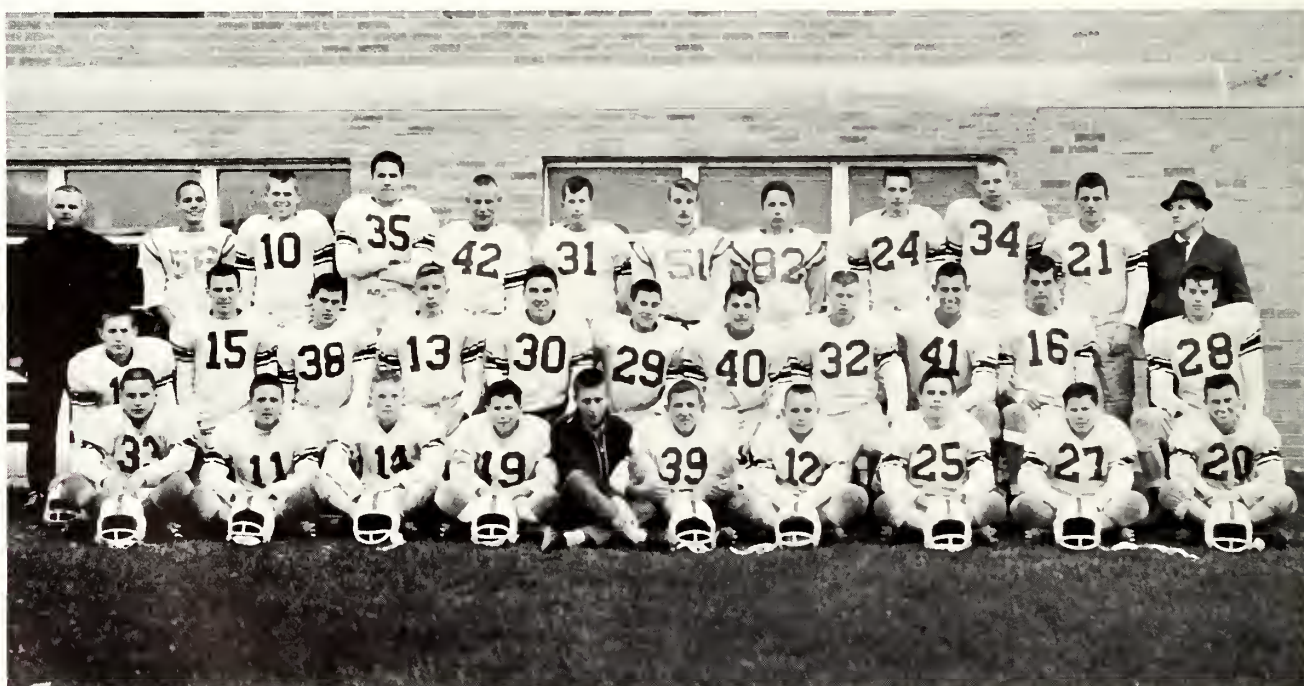

The frosh team's 2-1-7 record promises better fortunes in the near future, however. Tomorrow's varsity team defeated Fulton and Lawrence this year while learning more of the tricks of football.

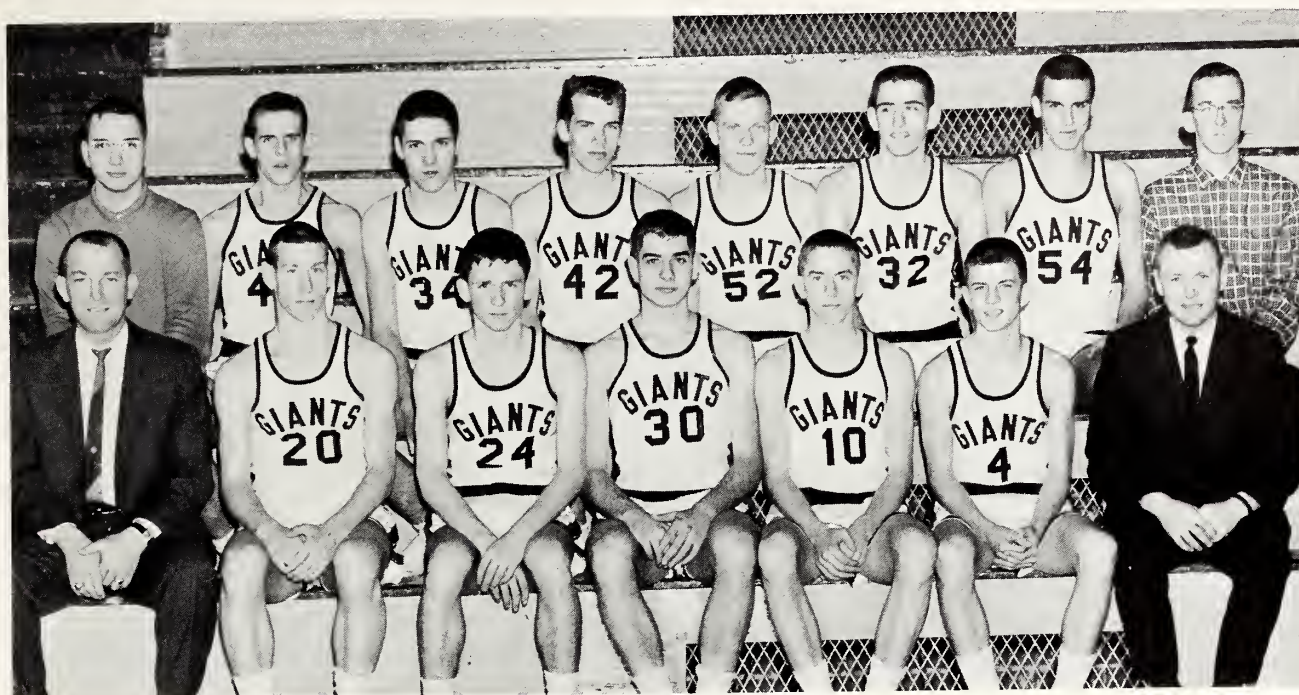

With Warren Central in hot pursuit, quarterback Darrell Thompson goes for a large yard gain.

With four returning lettermen on the squad, the Giants opened their 1962-63 season against the Golden Knights of Arlington and defeated them, 55-46. The varsity five then dealt Lebanon's Tigers a hard-earned 55-49 loss. The Giants then lost to Warren Central, Shortridge, Broad Ripple, Tech, Crispus Attucks, and Manuel. Their final win before the county tourney was over Bloomington.

In the county meet Ben Davis defeated Pike's Red Devils in an overtime and then bowed to Decatur Central in the semi-final round, 61-51.

After the County the Giants defeated North Central and then lost to county champ Southport. The roundballers showed that records mean nothing as they used hustle and teamwork to defeat highly-rated Howe, 68-62.

The Giants then lost four straight games to Plainfield, Washington, Crawfordsville, and Muncie South before avenging their county tourney loss to Decatur by dropping the Hawks on their floor, 71-69.

At sectional-time the Giants showed they had improved during the year by defeating Lawrence Central, 57-49, in the first round. The Finemen then lost their second game to the fired-up Irish from Cathedral, 78-58. Ben Davis had ended its season with a 7-13 record.

Reserve, freshman fives show potential

Suffering from lack of experience, the Ben Davis reserve basketball team struggled to a record of seven wins and 13 losses. The reserves lost many games in the final few minutes of play when, with victory in sight, a cold spell seemed to fall on the team's playing. In the "little county tourney" they defeated North Central only to have their high hopes shattered by Warren Central, who ended Ben Davis's tourney chances.

Beginning the season with a seven-point loss to Arlington did not stop the reserves; they came back with a 30-34 win from Lebanon. After repeating their pattern in the next two games by dropping before Warren, then downing Shortridge, the Giants hit a dry spot with five consecutive losses. Entering the invitational tourney following a win from Bloomington, the reserves defeated North Central and then bowed to Warren. The reserves' next victory came from Howe, but was followed by losses to both Plainfield and Washington. They ended the season by taking a close contest from Crawfordsville, a loss to Muncie South Side, and a final victory from Decatur Central.

Senior matman, Carl Chaleff, stalks his sectional opponent.

In their first year match the BDHS grapple lost to Franklin Central, 31-18, but then came back from their upset to trounce the Kokomo Wildcats, 32-16. Heading the experienced team were state champ in the 138-pound class, Rudy Dotlich, and 122-pound county champ, Dave Paino, both seniors.

For the second year in a row the varsity matmen showed their bruising practice sessions pay off by getting a share of the county title with Warren Central. Top winner for Ben Davis were: Rudy Dotlich, 138-pounds, Carl Chaleff, 145-pound class and Ray O'Conner in the 165-pound class.

The following week the Giants faced Tech and had eight men win first places as they beat the Titans, 30-17. After this they added three more victories to their record with wins over New Albany, Manual and a four-way tourney at Anderson.

The Giants placed second in the Sectional behind Cathedral as Dan Dooley and Roy O'Conner were defeated while Rudy Dotlich went on to the final match of the IHSAA State Finals.

Reserve matmen power way to title

Wrestling is a sport in which individual effort is all important to team success. This year each of the Ben Davis reserve wrestling team members contributed his talents to give the team a perfect record of 15 wins and no losses, as well as the county championship.

The reserve grapplers began their season in November by defeating Franklin Central, 41 to 16. Encouraged by this initial success, the reserves went on to score victories over Kokomo, 41-6, Lawrence Central, 34-15, and Southport, 28-18. On Dec. 11, the Ben Davis reserves met their first varsity opponents, the Crispus Attucks matmen, and took an impressive 25-21 victory. After Crispus Attucks, Ben Davis went on to greater victories, leaving Decatur Central, 42-10; North Central, 26-10; the varsity Columbus squad, 33-17; Tech, 36-14; the Terre Haute Schulte varsity, 44-8; and Pike, 25-21.

The "junior" Giants climaxed a highly successful season by winning the county championship.

Improved golfers line up better season

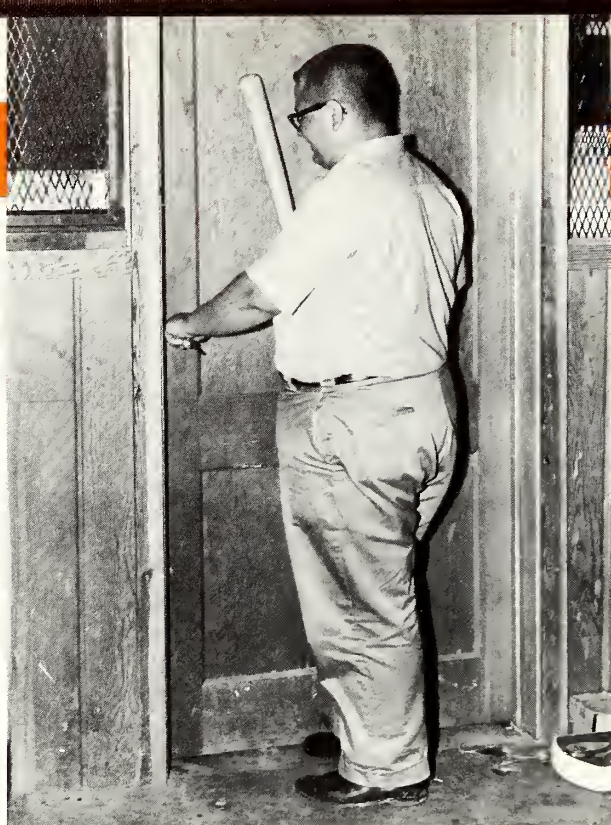

Coach Robert Dunbar's golf team consisted of three seniors and four juniors, who all had had experience in the varsity level.

With experience and determination they posted a very respectable six wins and seven losses. Early in the season they lost to Southport, 13-0, but came back later in the year and defeated the Cardinals, 3 1/2-2 1/2. They also repeated this against Manual by scores of 4 1/2-2 1/2 and 5 1/2-2 1/2. They lost to Washington, Shortridge, Scecina, and Franklin Central, while defeating North Central, Lawrence Central, and Pike.

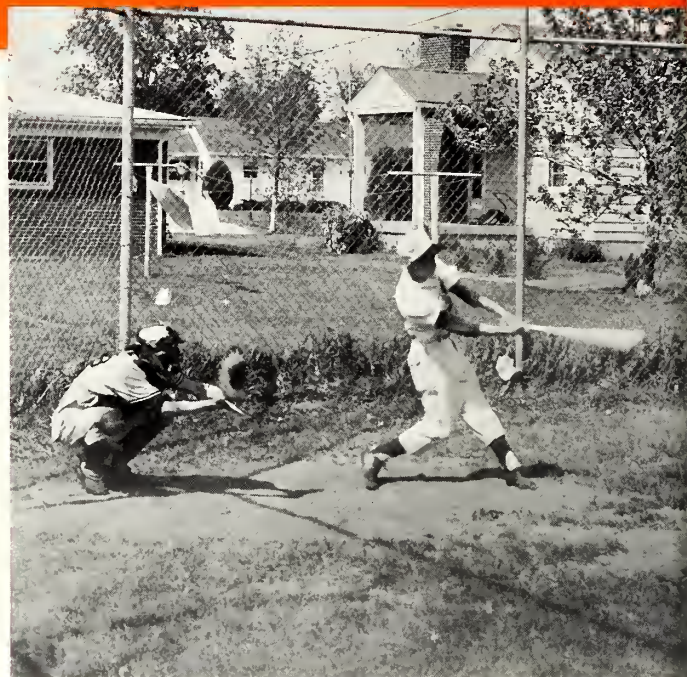

Dave Paino was number one man all year. Next spring there will be three returning lettermen to Mr. Dunbar's squad, Jerry Lagle, David Teeter, and Steve Gipson.

With eight lettermen returning to the varsity squad this year, baseball hopes were high for an undefeated season and a county championship which have eluded the Giant diamondmen for the past few years.

The Giant niners' bid for an undefeated season was ended in their first game of the year by their being defeated by the Southport Cardinals, 3-0. With more enthusiasm the Giants showed their power with a 13-3 thumping of Shortridge, 8-1 conquest of Cathedral's Irish, and a hard-earned 3-1 victory over Manuel. Warren Central was the next team to beat the BDHS nine 2-1 on errors.

Showing their ability to come back after defeat, the Giants defeated Decatur Central, 11-3; North Central, 4-3; Crispus Attucks, 59-0; and Tech, 7-1, before bowing to Washington, 13-5, and Howe, 2-0. Adding a little variety to their schedule, they traveled to Anderson and were defeated by the Indians, 6-4. They again came back and defeated Nobelsville 10-3 to prepare them for the County Tourney where they were to meet Southport. The Cards defeated Ben Davis for the second time in one season, this time by a score of 13-4.

John Maines pushes to improve his shotput mark.

Cindermen feature

Opening their season against the Continentals of Washington, the varsity track squad was soundly defeated by their Westside rivals, 89-20. Next the Giant cindermen captured two firsts at the Hoosier Relays in the mile relay and shuddle hurdle relay events. They then engaged in a three-way meet with Warren Central and Southport, placing third.

In the North Central Relays, the Giants placed third by winning four firsts in the broad jump, the 440, 880, and mile relay.

At Muncie's Invitational, senior runner Bob Dickison posted the best time ever recorded in the mile, circling the quarter-mile track four times in 4:25.3, to set a new BDHS track record. The mile relay team of Dave Honey, John Maines, Mike Fortier, and Dickison also set a new school record of 3:34.3. A third school record was set also in the sprint medley with a time of 2:41.3.

The Giants placed fourth in the county meet with Dickison posting a record 1:59.2 in the half mile. In the sectionals Ben Davis placed fourth and qualified Dickison in the mile and the mile relay team, which set a new sectional mark of 3:27.6.

Inexperience hampers pesky tennis squad

In the spring, a group of Ben Davis boys meets on the tennis courts behind the Wayne Central Building. Developing their serves and returns, these boys work many hours to make the BDHS tennis team competitive with other schools.

Improving with experience, the racquetmen ended the season with a record of two wins and eight losses.

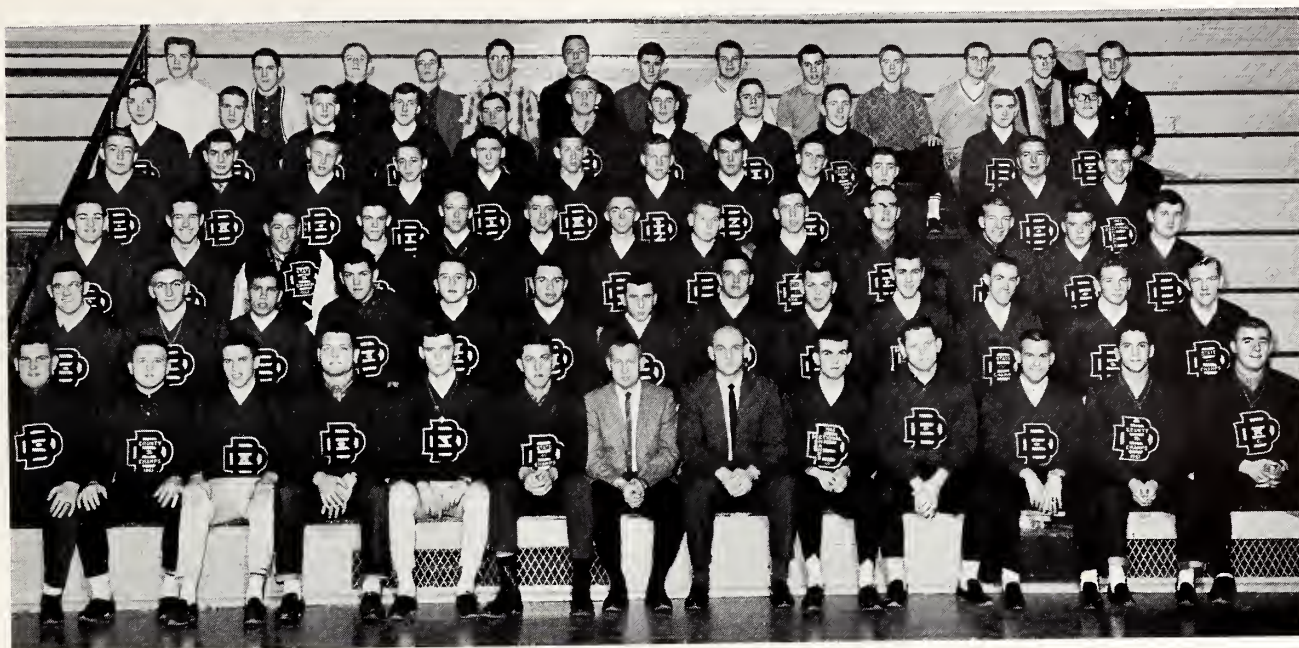

The Giants began the season on an optimistic note with a 4-3 victory over Franklin Central. In the next two matches, however, they lost 2-8 to Howe and 2-5 to Cathedral. Regaining their footing, the tennis team showed good form in overcoming Pike by a score of 6-1. As the season came to a close, the boys again ran into trouble. First they lost to Crawfordsville, 1-6, then, in the final match, they fell to Wood's squad, 3-4.

When Coach Bob Lee looked back on the 1963 season, he saw an improved squad and, with returning players, high hopes for 1964.

Lettermen's Club enjoys active year

In the school year 1957, Athletic Director Howard Williams, now a vice principal, initiated the Ben Davis Lettermen's Club.

By the combination of skill, muscles, confidence, and talent a boy may earn a varsity letter and thus become a member of the Lettermen's Club. At the present time the enrollment of the organization is over 90 and growing rapidly. Purpose of the club is to help promote a creditable athletic program and to provide better relations between athletic coaches, pupils and administration.

Some of the club's activities during the year are handing out programs at home games and their record hops.

This year's officers have maintained the job required of them. Bill Clore, president; Carl Chaleff, vice president; Ray Starnes, secretary; and David Honey, treasurer.

Under the watchful eye of Mr. Bob Britt and Mr. Marion Fine, athletic director, the BD men used all profits to help support an athletic injury insurance program.

When BDHS teams compete for honors

Tears and sighs are all part of the Booster Club.

Booster Club officers are: J. Poland, T. Wills, C. Clarke, and E. Coss.

School spirit depends upon the cooperation of the pupils and the different pep clubs.

The newly-formed Sideliners Club presents the opportunity for boys to join in expressing the spirit of the school. The club, which is sponsored by Mr. Trent Gipson, Mr. Bob Britt, and Mr. Evan Fine, has in one year held a clean-up campaign and raised $100 for uniforms for the cheerleaders. The club members, who sport navy blazers, present a striking sight on the nights of the basketball games.

The girls also serve a vital part of the pep events. The long established Booster Club has cheered Ben Davis on to victory many times over the years. The members have spent long hours sewing their capes for the Booster Club garb because this year it was decided that the club members would wear purple capes and white gloves. This mighty group under the direction of Miss Marilyn Benson cheers and gestures in a synchronized bloc.

Booster Club and Sideliners do their best together with music provided by the Pep Band, which seems to add bounce to the cheers. This cooperation of all the groups together helps to make the cheering section of the school bigger and better, and it helps to promote school spirit.

During pep session enthusiastic rooters cheer for their team.

enthusiasm wherever they appear

"Don't you ever get tired?" This is a question which confronts the Ben Davis cheerleaders. Both varsity and reserve cheerleaders put in hard hours of work before they cheer before a crowd of excited sports fans.

The 1962-63 varsity squad earned the title of Best in the Midwest for their class at the Midwest Cheerleaders Camp at Syracuse this summer. The varsity six won over 250 other participants.

Work never ends for these girls. In addition to practice sessions, all 12 girls attend a conference at Indiana University during the school year to learn new techniques and yells.

At athletic events you can always see the cheerleaders smiling, talking with the fans, and lifting the spirits of the crowd. The cheerleaders do more than just cheer for the ball games. During the year they help the Lions' Club with their fair, and took part in a P-TA program. The girls also spent many long hours in promoting and practicing for the homecoming parade and program.

Our varsity six can always be counted on to smile and lead another cheer even when our team isn't winning. It's no wonder that these girls, under the direction of Miss Marilyn Benson, are called "cheerleaders."

Less known but still an important part of Ben Davis' dynamic music department are the orchestra and dance bands.

From the confines of the band room in the Senior Building one hour each day strains of difficult orchestral passages fill the halls as the string ensemble works. With guidance from their faculty director, Mr. Robert Bunning, members of the orchestra formed the nucleus of the pit orchestra for the spring musical, "South Pacific."

Selected members of the Marching Giants who wanted additional opportunities to improve upon their musical skills and to perform were awarded chairs in the school's talented dance band. Directed by Mr. Fred Neimeyer, the band found itself in great demand for dance dates during the post-Christmas dance season.

Gallons of white shoe polish, sore muscles, hundreds of hours of hard work, and a great feeling of accomplishment are all integral parts of the life of a majorette or flag corps girl in the mighty Marching Giant band. The majorettes and flag corps girls add color and a valuable quality of sportsmanship to the band.

Led by the head majorette, the girls march with the band and often put on halftime shows during the football season. Mr. Ronald Doak, the girls' instructor, works out routines, supervises marching, and gives much of his undivided attention to the band. The girls are chosen from the dozens of eager applicants who try out for the positions. Those who are not selected can always look forward to next year, and those who are lucky enough to become members can look forward to an experience never to be forgotten.

The majorettes are the first of the band to be seen and greet the crowds at the many performances across the country. Their smiles and their enthusiasm are an indication of the feelings of the entire band. The girls have a big job to do, and they will never forget the satisfaction of having done it well.

"California, here we come!" Departing with these words, the Mighty Marching Ben Davis Giants flew to California.

The 166-member band marched and played its way to an invitation to the biggest parade of all, the Tournament of Roses in Pasadena, Calif. Nearly 90 million people, the largest audience the band has ever performed before, watched the parade over nationwide television. While in the West the band gave a concert, at Disneyland, visited Tijuana, Mexico, and toured most of Southern California.

Appearing in the "500" Parade; the state fair, band contest, where they were fourth from among 100 bands; halftime shows at home football games, and at Pres. John F. Kennedy's visit to Indianapolis, the band had a busy schedule at home, as well as away.

A new feature in the band this year came with the introduction of fiberglass instruments. Colored in bright shades of green, orange, red, blue, and yellow, these new horns added color and brightened the ranks of the Hoosier Band.

The band's year actually began in mid-July when members reported for practice during the latter part of the summer. Hard work put out by the band members was rewarded by successes in the end, and the band could look back on a very full year.

Gymnastics and intramurals stress fitness

Part of Ben Davis High School's varied athletic program was concerned with gymnastics and intramural basketball. Members of the two groups met after school to participate in these activities.

The gymnastics team enter competition in balancing, tumbling, and trampolining. Spending long hours practicing for these events, the gymnasts learn poise, balance, and coordination. After the first day's work on the parallel bars, trampoline, or horse the gymnastics participants felt muscles they didn't even know they had.

Intramural sports is concerned with the teams playing within the school. Ten teams made up the intramural basketball schedule in 1962-63. These teams played each other, then ended the year with a playoff to determine the first-place team.

Mark Ristow, captain of winning intramural team, discusses tourney drawing with Mr. William Minnick, faculty sponsor.

GAA and Bowling Club

GAA! GAA! This is an expression heard around Ben Davis High School after initiation of the new members in the Girls' Athletic Association.

The purpose of GAA is to promote fair play and sportsmanship and to give girls an opportunity to take part in physical activities.

The sports these girls participate in include basketball, track, tumbling, baseball, swimming, badminton, tennis, volleyball, and horseback riding.

Outside of their regular activities, the GAA sponsors a slumber party, the GAA Jills and the Faculty Frills basketball game, a pizza-twist party, a Play Day at Indiana University, Clothe-A-Child, Harvest Swing representative, and other money making activities.

Points are earned by attending the weekly meeting after school on Tuesday. Points may also be earned by participating in skill tests.

Awards are presented at the end of the year at a banquet. The awards presented are: numerals, 150 points; letter, 250 points; state awards, 350 points. An award is also given to the outstanding girl athlete.

Mrs. Anne Hamlet is the sponsor of the Girls' Athletic Association.

stress competition and sportsmanship

Tuesday and Wednesday are busy days for members of the Bowling Club. Members, bowling under the direction of Mr. Mimis Antonopoulos, can find fun and relaxation by participating in the club. This year, the Ben Davis club was the largest of its kind in Indiana.

Teams are formed during the start of the school year, and officers take on the respective duties to see that alley activity moves along smoothly from week to week.

The season ends with a bowling banquet honoring the winning teams and top individual scorers. Well-deserved awards are given to bowlers, and underclassmen can look forward to a better year and a better average.

Spotlight, News Bureau report BD life

Headlining the year for the Spotlight staff were new methods of publications and the print shop. With two staffs during the second semester, BD pupils received copies of the school paper once a week. The staff concerned itself with the acquiring of news tips of important occurrences. After this, stories are developed and proofread. Typists and page-planners take over and the pages are finally sent to the printers.

Along with reporting the news to the school, the News Bureau reports the news to the community and the state. Their all important job is to inform the vital areas of the school's happenings. They supply the needed information and the vital statistics that are pertinent to the community.

NEWS BUREAU Director Sarah Brown (seated) discusses copy problems with correspondent Pam Altmeyer.

An intense interest in journalism can be satisfied upon entering the honorary Quill And Scroll.

To become a member of this organization one must have served two semesters on one of the publications staffs, Keyhole, News Bureau or Spotlight. Also, they must carry a B average to obtain membership in the honorary.

Among the activities sponsored by the Quill and Scroll are: the Harvest Swing, a record hop, and the presentation of the Gold and Silver Key awards.

The Harvest Swing is the first dance of the year, and as in the past it was a huge success. The cafeteria was transformed into the Western frontier, and everyone returned to the past for an evening.

Gold and Silver Keys are awarded to the most outstanding seniors and juniors, respectively. The recipients selected have shown academic and leadership abilities.

Keyhole kids concentrate on covering year

Ray Yockey, Steve Carnine, Pat Houston, Ruth Wilson, Laura Boston, Cindy Baldwin, and Jayne MacDonald spent long hours working on the underclassmen album section.

A new room and a new group of faces greeted the new year for the Keyhole staff. Long hours and many pages went into the yearbook. Working during sixth period and after school the pupils labored over layouts, copy, and cropping pictures. This year, as in the past, the staff has sent editors, photographers, copy editors, and business managers to institutes and conferences. These staff members learned basic and new methods of putting out a top yearbook. Some went to class during the summer.

A yearbook undergoes many modifications before it is sent to the publishers. Even in its final stages a book needs changes before it may be classified as ready to go. This is the role of the "Keyhole Kids." Theme ideas and discarded layouts penetrated the files as the 1963 Keyhole became a reality of page plans and cropped pictures.

Learning arts of speech and dramatics

Probably two of the most active organizations on the Ben Davis campus are the National Forensics League and the varsity debate team. Mrs. Kay Marks, speech teacher, directed the activities of the NFL. The debaters under the guidance of Mrs. Joan Stauffer learned the artful way of arguments.

Saturdays found the debate team and NFL members traveling to schools across the state in order to participate in various speech meets. The solo events fell into eight categories. These included dramatic interpretation, humorous interpretation, oratorical declamation, and original oratory. Other pupils participated in events of radio, poetry, reading, discussion, and boys' and girls' extemporaneous speaking. Many long hours were spent by fellow debate members in preparation for the designated debate topic. This year's debate topic was Resolved: That the United States should adopt a policy of reciprocal free trade with non-Communist nations.

Yet, the hours of hard work proved beneficial for both groups. Ben Davis pupils participating in solo events ranked high at many contests. Senior Jim Ford was honored by placing first in his division at the state speech contest. Jim entered in the field of oratorical declamation. The debate team also reaped benefits by winning several of their active debates.

Some students experiment in science

Ken Rainey, Kay Zwerner, Jim Breedlove, and Ron Hera discuss plans for the next Science Club program.

The Science Club at Ben Davis is one of the major clubs associated with academic work. Through its activities, the science pupil at Ben Davis has a chance to acquaint himself with the challenge and entertainment of personal scientific research.

The club, which is offered to chemistry and physics pupils carrying a C average, affords an opportunity for further education in the science spectrum. Programs consist of projects and presentations by members.

Under the watchful eye of Mr. Daryl Miller, the club flourishes. They built the winning float in the homecoming parade for the second year in a row.

The Ben Davis mathematics clubs are not necessarily all work and no play. Along with the basic fundamentals of math, the clubs also entertain their members with problems and puzzles to challenge their minds.

Trialge and Mu Alpha Theta fulfill these needs. The organizations under the direction of Miss Nina Martin, department chairman, bring the challenges of mathematics to all those interested.

To be a member of Trialge, a pupil must have completed a minor in mathematics. Mu Alpha Theta, the honorary math club, requires the prospective member to have completed six semesters of math and to acquire a C average in all other subjects.

One of the most appreciated projects of the two groups by all pupils and teachers in the school is the Christmas tree which is decorated by the club members.

4-H'ers, vegetable judgers acquire skills

Vegetable judge, Mary Helen Montgomery, carefully appraises the quality of a carrot.

Judging the quality of vegetables is part, but certainly not all of the activities of the Ben Davis vegetable judging team. Besides judging the size, shape, weight, and color of the different vegetables, the judges must also rate plates of vegetables. They must identify types of vegetables, seeds, deficiencies in the plants, insects, and weeds. The common potato is subject of the frantic activity in the two major contests at the Indiana State Fair and Purdue University. In two very short minutes the participants must judge the quality of 100 potatoes.

The four H's of the 4-H club stand for head, heart, hand, and health. All members of the club pledge these four things to improve themselves, their community, and their nation.

Each summer 4-H members go to a camp where they can work on projects which may later be exhibited in the state fair.

Most high school 4-H'ers become Junior Leaders after serving three years in the club. In Junior Leaders, the 4-H'er may lead groups of eighth graders at a summer camp as well as go to a special Junior Leader Camp.

Emory Pence shares an amusing experience with fellow 4-H Junior Leaders, F. Barker, L. Haskell, D. Graham, and Mr. Dwight Cottingham.

French club captures Parisian flavor

Nineteen sixty-two-sixty-three proved to be a most interesting and rewarding year for the French Club. This organization, under the direction of Mrs. Sue Greenlee, strived to promote an interest in the French language, people, and culture.

The year's activity began as club members participated in the annual Olympic Games. Soon after, the members were found busily working on a float to be entered in the homecoming parade. One of the most enjoyable meetings of the years was spent at Rene's French Restaurant.

In addition to being enjoyable, the activities ensued by the French Club proved helpful to others. During Thanksgiving, a basket of food for a needy family was prepared. The Christmas season found members making socks to be filled with candy and toys. These were then given to an orphanage.

"Le Mystereux Rendezvous" was the theme of the second annual spring dance sponsored by the club. The year's program then closed with a picnic and party.

Language clubs provide fun and hard

"La Tertulia," a Spanish word meaning "social gathering for conversation or entertainment," denotes the meaning of the Ben Davis High School Spanish Club. Purpose of the club is to help pupils studying Spanish to learn more about the people and customs of Spanish-speaking countries and to become more proficient in speaking the language.

The Spanish Club, inactive last year, was revitalized by Miss Alice Knapp, new teacher of Spanish. Carol Jean Smith, sophomore, was elected president of the organization.

Activities pursued by club members were numerous. Fall activities included participation in the annual Olympic Games and entering a float in homecoming. In December a play, "Las Pasada," was presented by club members before the P-TA. The major spring project was the sponsoring of an all-school street dance, which proved to be most unique and fun for everyone.

Juniors Gene Forry and Vicki Andrade stop for refreshments during the Spanish Club's street dance in the spring.

During the past year, the Latin Club, SPQR, has enjoyed its most active year since its creation. The agenda was filled with various activities. Besides the usual Christmas and Thanksgiving collection for the needy and the annual Roman banquet, many new plans came forth. A better organized Olympic games delighted guests from five schools, and a Roman banquet was given for the parents.

Just before the State Junior Classical League meeting on the I. U. campus, the Latin Club was invited to present an authentic banquet on a television program. Since the show was so well received, the young Romans were asked to perform, again with the same program.

After the money is collected from the Latin Club newspaper "Nunc et Tunc" it is given to a college-bound senior as the SPQR scholarship.

Many, varied services help to keep

Student and adult help was kept busy to feed over 2100 pupils and teachers each day in the cafeteria.

Among the typical items that a pupil may obtain from the Book Den are: fee slips, tickets, and regular school supplies. Mr. Phillip Trees, manager, and his many assistants keep things in tow in the "Den."

Other assistants at BDHS are the pupils who work in the clinic. These pupils help Mrs. Ursel Sommers, the school nurse, aid the ill. They also learn the different first aid techniques and their proper uses.

Still other pupils who assist are the office girls. Their duties are many as they type, answer telephone calls, or run errands for teachers. They also run the duplicating and ditto machines.

The line to the Ben Davis cafeteria, which most of us travel each school day, is one of the longest in the school. Backing this journey are 26 cooks, who prepare the dinners; 34 pupils; and two janitors, who help care for the room.

The Parent-Teacher Association meets once a month to promote better education through closer co-operation between parents and teachers.

Another organization constantly working to better Ben Davis, which will long be remembered by the student body for paving the once-watery bus loading zone is the Lions' Club. The Lions meet in the school cafeteria every two weeks.

Throughout the year, janitors serve BD.

Service, leadership, and character, are the wonderful ingredients which make up a member of the Honor Society.

To become a member of the Honor Society it is necessary that a pupil rank in the top 25 per cent of his class. Names of candidates are then submitted to past and present teachers.

Consideration is based upon scholarship, character, leadership, and service. These pupils must have the ability to lead and to take orders. They must have the will to represent the school.

Various activities are sponsored by the Honor Society. The Honor Hop, a dance for the A and B pupils, a Christmas party, a spring picnic, and a banquet for the members and their parents are the major projects.

Under the direction of Miss Olive Carruthers, Mrs. Helen Poince, and Mr. Robert Seaman, the Honor Society raises its funds with sock hops and serving the Lions Club to promote a $100 scholarship fund.

while Council gives pupils voice in school

No school year ever ends without the ever important Student Council sponsored class and council elections. Candidates paint posters and signs, write speeches, and always declare their ability to do the job to their best capacity. With the results tallied the would-be-hopefuls learn of their success.

The Student Council is the pupils' voice in school affairs. It serves as a representative to the administration. It speaks out for the school and helps the school support a better student-teacher relationship. A pupil is heard through the Student Council.

In order for the Council to function properly it needs the support of the entire school and the cooperation of the pupils. This certainly includes the suggestions of the pupils to help make changes in the lives of the pupils.

Student Council's never ending job begins each fall by sponsoring the annual Homecoming, which is the start of the social scene for the new school year. The mid-year dance at Ben Davis is hosted by the Student Council. The Mid-Winter Whirl, which is semi-formal, is the event of the winter season. Spirited students show school spirit at Homecoming pep rally.

"Go team, beat Decatur" was a chant heard often during the excitement-filled night of Homecoming.

The spirited Marching Giants provided entertainment before the game with an arrangement of Decatur's and Ben Davis' school songs.

By the halftime, the tenseness of the event had grown to invigorating eagerness to learn who would receive the honor of Homecoming Queen. Sixteen elegant Corvettes carried the "cream of the crop" of BDHS's beauties onto the track. As the girls came by, the announcer, senior president Earl Houck, repeated each girl's name and at long last named the queen and her attendant from each class. Micki Hopper was crowned queen, and her court consisted of Suzanne Claycomb, senior; Susie Peterson, junior; Phyllis Wall, sophomore; and Cathy Hopper, freshman.

Gaily decorated floats were entered from various clubs, and hopes of many float committees rode with them on their journeys around the track. Science Club repeated as winner of first-place honors. Its theme was "Sail on to Victory." Second place went to the GAA and third, to the Booster Club.

As the gaiety of the evening faded into the night after the lively sock hop, another Homecoming was written into the book of memories.

Members of Masque and Gavel present

In addition to directing and producing school plays, members of Masque and Gavel also present plays to fellow members, and outside organizations.

The highlight of the year was the musical "South Pacific," the third musical presented at Ben Davis in recent years. "Oklahoma" and "The King and I" were presented in former years. Also presented in the fall was "The Night Is My Enemy."

Members participated in speech activities, speech meets, and contests. Areas covered included debate, radio announcing, extemporaneous speaking, and dramatic interpretation.

In September, 93 freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors attempted to gain membership in Masque and Gavel. Thirty were chosen by present Thespians. Would-be members are required to read serious or humorous paragraphs and present a short pantomime.

Props used in plays are made by members, bought, or donated by friends. In preparation for each play, pupils spend weeks painting, building, and placing scenery.

Members regularly serve Lions' Club dinners and sell magazine subscriptions to gain funds for their projects.

Applicants for Thespians are required to have at least 10 points before becoming members. Being a Thespian permits a pupil to run for a position in Masque and Gavel.

The Ben Davis Dramatics Club and the Ben Davis music department combined talents to present Rodgers' and Hammerstein's popular musical "South Pacific." The musical, which was performed May 10 and 11, was the third to be staged in recent years at BDHS.

"South Pacific" was the first big post-war musical to open on Broadway. It starred the late Ezio Pinza. A movie of the stage show, starring Mitzi Gaynor and Rozanno Brazzi, was produced five years ago.

Set against the background of a South Pacific island during World War II, this was a musical comedy about the love of a Navy nurse and a French plantation owner.

Popular songs from "South Pacific" include "Some Enchanted Evening," "Bali Hai," and "Nothing Like a Dame."

Featured as leads in the 49-member cast were: Linda Yarling as Nellie Forbush, Walt DeLong as Lieut. Joseph Cable, Tim Laughter as Luther Billis, and Davetta Reynolds as Bloody Mary.

The musical was under the direction and supervision of Mr. Bob Hughes and Mrs. Geraldine Miller.

Electing favorites among our classmates to reign over dances and sports seasons brings moments of suspense and thrills throughout the school year. 1962-63 was no exception.

From homecoming in the fall until the night of the prom in early May, the school year was punctuated by such moments. The means of selection were just as varied. In some instances, all-campus elections were conducted. At other times teams or club members made the choice. Harvest royalty was chosen by penny votes.

It can be seen, then, that as we award crowns much work went in to electing royalty as in crowning them.

Queen Mickey Hopper reigns over homecoming activities.

King Bill and Queen Sue reign over year's

While stars twinkled brightly in the Indiana Roof, an atmosphere of "Rhythm and Romance" spread over the 1963 Ben Davis Junior-Senior Prom. Boys dressed in dinner jackets and girls dressed in colorful formals danced and talked at the prom from 8:30 until midnight. Many boys stood in line for refreshments while their dates waited patiently for their return; other couples lined up to have pictures taken for future memories.

At 10:30 a hushed stillness swept through the room as everyone watched the prom court file toward the stage. Then master-of-ceremonies Steve Mains and mistress-of-ceremonies Nicki Hostetler crowned Bill Clore and Sue Williams as prom king and queen, and Alan Williams and Susie Petersen, prince and princess.

Queen Sue and King Bill, the court, and the two crown bearers, Andy Shatts and Susan Tobias, led the next dance.

Many couples went to pre-prom parties, post-prom dinners and parties, and, of course, the traditional prom picnics at various parks. All added together to make an exciting and interesting prom weekend.

Graduation services bring a fitting finale

to high school years

Remembering the excitement of our first football game, the endless lines, the inevitable term papers, we succumbed to the strenuous life of a senior. After three years of striving to maintain the goals and standards established by previous classes, we assumed the role of leaders in our various activities. With the year's passing, we realized many of our hopes and expectations--our senior prom, senior cords, college applications, and admiring glances from underclassmen. Yet there it was, all behind us. That longed-for diploma that represents four years of hard work was in sight. We felt that our education had prepared us for our future, but on graduation night we had mixed feelings.

We were anxious to face the world, but just a little frightened to leave the school where we had been a part of everything. Yes, graduation marked the end of our high school years, but we'll always possess a little of the spirit and tradition of Ben Davis.

Club '63 was the backdrop for this year's Senior Varieties. The night club atmosphere with seniors performing gave underclassmen the opportunity to see one of the advantages of being a senior.

Mr. Jack Jester and Mr. Daryl Miller, co-sponsors of the Class of '63, and Master-of-Ceremonies Earl Houck planned this year's program, and tryouts were conducted in April.

Instrumentalists, singing soloists, pantomimes, and dance groups were the predominate talents of the participating seniors.

Adding to the night club atmosphere of the two presentations were the seniors seated at tables on the gymnasium floor, applauding the skills of their classmates.

Senior Varieties opened with the sounds of a Dixieland band.

Susie Peterson and Steve Hughes, recipients of the Silver Keys, pause for a chat between classes.

Gold Key winners, Susan Syphers and Earl Houck, scan the senior issue of the Spotlight.

Seniors are the veterans, the old-timers,

With the commencement recessional Friday, May 31, members of the Senior Class of 1963 suddenly found their four years at Ben Davis High School at an end. How could what once seemed to be a long four years be past so quickly?

While thoughts were on the past, the challenge of the future was still present. The roads lead in many directions. Some plan to enter colleges and universities throughout the state and country; others plan for military service. Work and marriage remain for many.

Whatever the future holds for this Senior Class, its ability to have fun and to achieve remains as a legacy to future Senior Classes of Ben Davis High School.

Third year echoes

A pupil's junior year is the halfway mark for his high school career. Class rings, the prom, and the grand recognition of being an upperclassman and being next in line to the seniors are all part of the atmosphere. Juniors stand a little taller and a little straighter than before this time. A little responsibility becomes more than just a burdensome task left to the "older" ones.

Chemistry, Algebra III and IV, U.S. history, and long hours of hard work make up the life of the average junior.

This is the year for correcting and refining. It serves as the time to think about college and the career of one's choosing. A junior takes the time to make the final resolution that the coming senior year will be the best time of the four year term.

Happy talk and happy times make the junior year complete.

Third year officers include Nicki Hostetler (treas.), Steve Hughes (vice pres.), Annette Dunham (sec.), and Steve Mains (pres.).

Sophs silhouetted

Disecting and bisecting were two terms that were frequently used by many sophomores as they took biology and geometry. Disecting the worm, clam, frog, and a fish faced many sophomores, while still others learned to bisect lines and angles.

Then the all important class rings find their way into the busy school life. The thrill of ordering the rings is almost as great as actually possessing them. This is the first step in becoming an upperclassman.

Excitement is great during the spring as activities such as the sophomore class party and class elections climax a busy year for the future juniors.

The more industrious pupils become members of the National Honor Society. Just as everyone begins to settle down to business, June comes around the corner and the sophomore is finally an upperclassman.

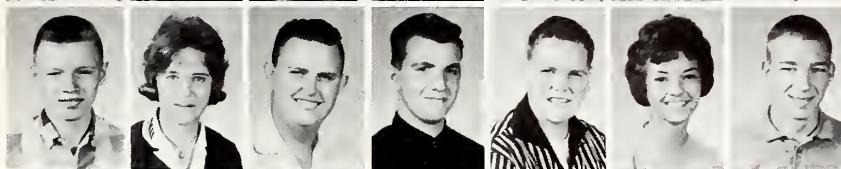

Steve Carnine, vice-president; Tim Oliver, president; Sheila Hamilton, secretary; and Cathy Hopper, treasurer, make plans for the annual Sophomore Party.

Frosh face BD life

Lost in the corridors of Ben Davis High School, the freshman may be found searching for his classes. In his first year at Ben Davis many more new problems and experiences face the freshman than merely being lost. During the freshman year, he meets high school homework, new friends, and new teachers.

In the fall, the first-year men elect their class representatives and team yell leaders, and begin looking forward to their class party in the spring.

As the first year runs on, the freshman learns the ways of Ben Davis in preparation for his next three years of high school.

Frosh Student Council representatives include Phyllis Cook, Barbara Metal, and Bill Newlin.

Providing their teams with spirit are freshman yell leaders: Bottom row--P. Mason, C. Long, and V. Koker. Top row--J. Jackson, and J. White.

"Hey, high school isn't all work and no play."

But it's my gym!

So this is how they get rid of the stewed tomatoes.

Smile, my boyfriend is watching.

If this works, I'll be a Junior Wizard.

How do I know what you are supposed to do with this!

I sure am sorry to graduate.

For photo portraits as classy as Ben Davis' championship yell leaders, we know that they must be done by the MAX GALLOWAY STUDIO of 20 E. 14th Street.

Champion bowlers like Kay Adkins, Joanne Straber, Linda Furst, and Jim Wright know it's wise to bowl at LYNHURST BOWL, 111 N. Lynhurst Dr.

For quality home building, Beth Sheppard shows that it's the SHEPPARD CONSTRUCTION COMPANY of 5632 W. Washington St.

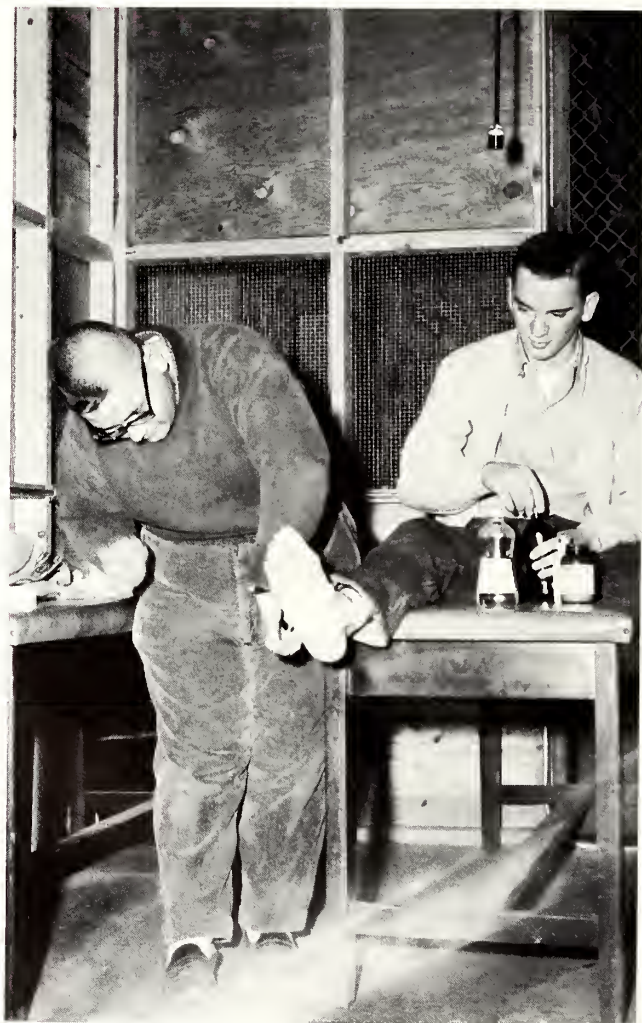

Top services assured by area businesses

After a day of teaching, Ben Davis teachers Mrs. Anne Hamlet, Miss Jean Prichard, Miss Sandra Dennison, and Mrs. Pat Kenney sign out and plan for coffee and sandwiches at the SILVER FOUNTAIN, 5720 W. Washington St.

Grading and taping

LANG TRUCKING COMPANY (Speedway) provides trucks for hauling construction materials.

First aid supplies from HENDERSON PHARMACY, 4406 W. Washington Street are applied to Ed Criss by Stan Henderson.

Ron Hera and Mike Flanders study the plans of a house that might be sold by McCONNELL AND CLARK REALTORS, 5641 W. Morris Street.

Ken Rainey points out to Brenda Reynolds and Patty Warren the equipment he purchased at BEN DAVIS TIRE AND BATTERY, 6243 W. Washington Street.

Crew cuts and flat tops, freshmen and seniors, all boys get a good haircut at DEUTSCH'S BARBER SHOP, 5636 W. Washington Street.

"Just a minute and I'll pin it on," says Doug Lines to Carol Applegate about the corsage he bought at J. C. HOFFMAN FLORIST, 5439 W. Washington Street.

Alan Williams and John Maines inspect equipment bought at SPORTS SPOT, 3543 West 16th Street.

Building bodies and buildings

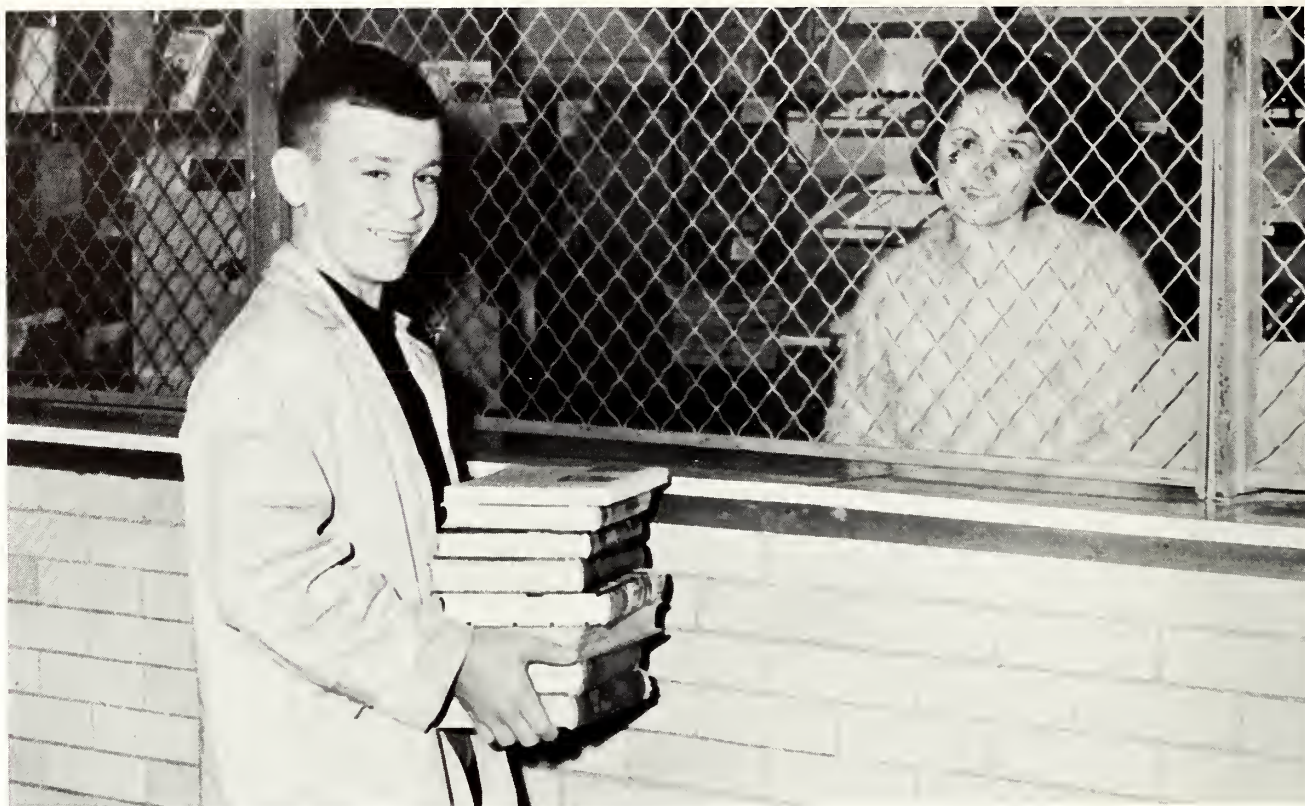

"It won't split," states Larry Cunningham to Jim Ford and Donna Sternaman, because it comes from BLACK-HEBERT LUMBER COMPANY, 1740 S. High School Road.

Skinner gives you express service

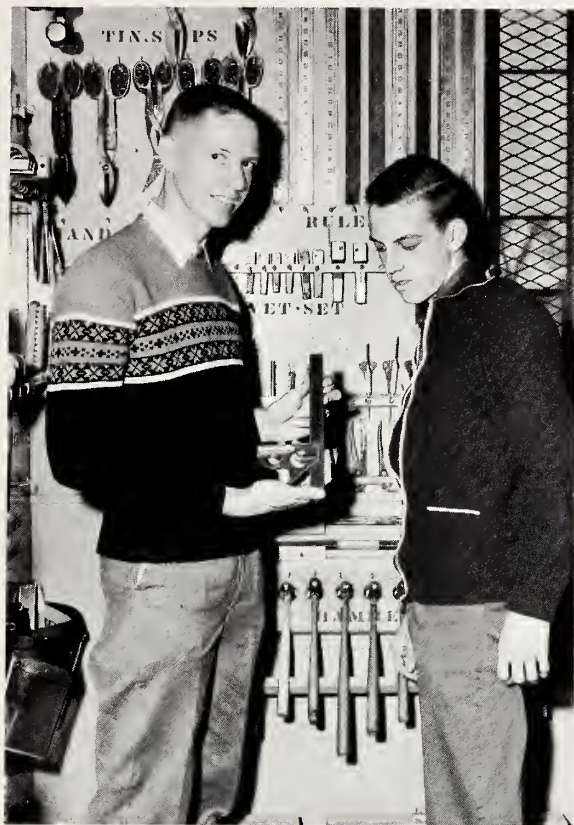

Bruce Allison, Steve Carnine, Janet Allen, and Virginia Miller place their instruments in care of SKINNER MOTOR EXPRESS, 6341 W. Minnesota Street.

Jeff Gehle purchases a variety of materials from Rita Smith at the BEN DAVIS BOOK DEN.

Jim Kriegbaum and Gene Forry admire a new car purchased at BLANCK CHEVROLET, 710 E. Main Street, Brownsburg.

Jody Jordan advises Portia Bain to call WAYNE PARK GARAGE, 4808 W. Washington Street.

Tools, tires, and tune-ups needed ?

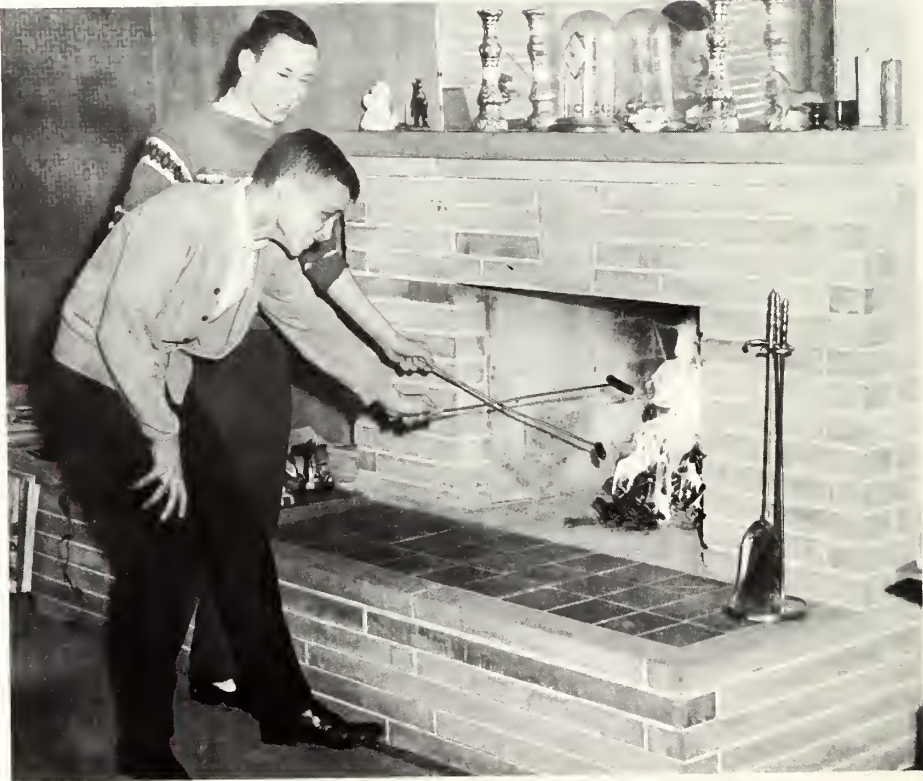

"I'm sure glad that Dad bought that spare tire at BURT NEES TIRE COMPANY, 6613 W. Washington Street," says Terry Maish to Gerry Schmidlin.

Needed services reflected in school life

Ben Davis pupils can depend on the
WESTLAKE DRIVE-IN THEATER
on Beach Way Dr.
for quality movie entertainment

Roasting hot dogs reminds Jim Andrews and Steve Glass of the delicious root beer and hot dogs served at JACK'S DOG 'N
SUDS, 6310 Rockville Rd.

Despite the large lunches, David Murdock and David Teeter will be ready for an after-school snack at TEETER'S DRUGS, 6301 W. Washington Street.

Dale Baldwin and Marianne Pein are selecting their senior announcements to be ordered from HERFF-JONES, 1401 N. Capitol.

MONTY'S SUPER-MARKET at 5302 W. Washington Street provided the party supplies being prepared by Vicki Payne and Tim Laughter.

Susie Gunkel admires Karen Cantwell's Valentine corsage from BLOOM FLORIST at 3433 West Tenth Street.

To prove that chivalry is not dead, Richard Knauer protects June Scott's shoes, purchased at SCHIFF'S SHOE STORE, in Eagledale Shopping Plaza.

BD pupils seek many commodities

Bill Tandy and Penny Ringwood certainly enjoy their lunch much more with products from MAPLEHURST DAIRIES, 3725 Farnsworth.

Jane McDonald and Ruth Wilson inspect a stove bought at WILLS FEED AND SUPPLY, 5330 W. Washington.

Karen Steele looks on as Donna Page waters the plants bought at KIEFER FLORIST, 2901 West 16th Street.

"It's time to get some fuel," remarks Mr. Dwight Cottingham, from DENNIS OIL COMPANY, 1806 Panama Street.

Throughout an active year at Ben Davis . . .
